Summary

2007 CIB 24th W078 Conference with the main topic "Bringing ITC knowledge to work" has been held in Maribor, a medieval city of central Europe, in Slovenia. It incorporated two already well established workshops, lead by EG-ICE - European Group for Intelligent Computing in Engineering and ITC@EDU - Construction IT in Education Network.

Around 130 researchers active in the field of Construction Informatics at universities, in research institutes and in industry from 35 countries of all continents participated in this workshop oriented conference with a more focussed approach and discussions as well as a stronger personal involvement.

The program included panel sessions with recognized keynote speakers and workshops with over 100 presentations in the following topics:

- Industry Experiences and Challenges
- Building Information Models
- Ontologies

- Intelligent Computing in Engineering
- Global ITC education
- Project Management
- Design Automation
- Facilities Management
- ICT enhanced Building
- Mobile, Wireless Technologies in AEC
- Simulation
- Virtual Reality

The last day plenary sessions were especially valuable for developers and researchers from the building industry, researchers from related areas, and students, because summaries of all topics were presented and discussed.
