Forthcoming Meeting

TG72 - Public Private Partnership

Revamping PPP’s Symposium: From ‘Revisiting and Rethinking’ to ‘Revamping and Revitalising’ PPP’s

28 February 2009, Hong Kong, China PR

This Symposium replaces the already announced CIB TG72 Workshop on Public Private Partnership as in the previous CIB newsletter. At the same venue, and on the same day, the Symposium incorporates a morning Seminar that will enable wider interactions and discussions, as considered useful following interest generated in the previously planned Workshop.

The Symposium will bring together PPP players and researchers from many countries, to revisit and rethink PPP based on past lessons learned, present and potential imperatives; towards more realistic appraisals of potential PPP’s, and higher ‘holistic success’ levels in projects chosen for PPP.

There will be a Morning Seminar with a larger participant group and an Afternoon Workshop on special topics and with focussed discussions for a smaller group.

To join the full one-day Symposium: those interested in joining specific discussions, the Panel, or a ‘focus group’ on a special topic, are invited to express their specific interests, with full contact info to Prof. Mohan Kumaraswamy at mohan@hku.hk as soon as possible before 22 January 2009.

To join morning Seminar ONLY: please apply before 22 January 2009, with affiliation/parent organisation and full contact info to ppps@hku.hk.
