Forthcoming Meeting

35th International Symposium CIB W062 on Water Supply and Drainage for Buildings

Düsseldorf, Germany, 7-9 September 2009

Introduction

CIB Working Commission W062 holds its 35th annual symposium in Düsseldorf with the Faculty of Building Services, Energy and Environmental Engineering, the Fachhochschule Gelsenkirchen, University of Applied Sciences, as the organizer. On behalf of the commission and organizer, the organizing committee is pleased to invite you to participate in this CIB W062 2009 35th International Symposium on Water Supply and Drainage for Buildings, to be held on 7-9 September, 2009, in Düsseldorf, Germany.

The symposium will bring together researchers, practitioners, regulators and industry from all over the world, with an interest in the developments in the field of water supply and drainage for buildings.

Symposium Objectives

The aim of the symposium is to provide a forum where participants will be informed and can exchange:

- experiences on recent developments in water supply and drainage for buildings
- information on characteristics and performances of systems and data for their design
- on the implementation of codes and standards
- on future research coordination

Topics

Within the general area of concern, the topics in which papers are encouraged should preferably include the following:

- management and maintenance of water systems, commissioning, non destructive techniques, water conditioning, health and hygienic aspects
- sustainable construction, water conservation, rainwater and grey water reuse
- hydraulics of water systems
- influence of natural disaster, climate change, flooding, earthquakes, terrorism
- durability, materials, historic buildings
- standardisation, certification, drinking water regulations

Symposium Language

The official language of the Symposium is English.
