Today we launch the new style CIB News Service that enables people to indicate a personal preference for the type CIB News Articles they want to receive.

Current News Service

The current system of CIB News consists of two main components.

Firstly there is the CIB Newsletter, of which about ten issues are published each year (so as an average one every five weeks), with a collection per newsletter of 15 – 20 stand-alone News articles, amongst others about:

- News from the approximately 50 CIB Expert Commissions

- News from the CIB Priority Themes: Sustainable Construction, Integrated Design and Delivery Solutions and Resilient Urbanization
- News from the CIB Student Chapters
- News from the CIB Secretariat and from the CIB Management
- Announcements and Calls for Papers for forthcoming international conferences and reports on the outcome of those conferences
- Announcements of CIB Webinars and reports on those webinars, including information on how to access recording of those webinars
- Information about (most often free downloadable) new CIB publications
- Information about the CIB Encouraged international journals, including calls for papers for special issues and announcements of the publication (and often free accessibility) of those special issues.

These Newsletters are automatically offered to all registered CIB Members. In addition people (especially including non-Members) can take up a personal free subscription to this Newsletter.

Secondly there are the stand-alone News articles, of which there are as an average 3 - 4 each week. These News articles are send automatically to all registered Members of the CIB Expert Commissions, if a News article is considered of special importance to a Commission. So, for example all Members of the Commission on Fire Safety will automatically receive all News articles that address topics related to Fire safety. This may be 10 – 15 such News articles each year, or as an average one each month. They will receive these News articles per email immediately after they are published in the CIB website and thus do not have to wait for up to five weeks until they receive them as part of the Newsletter.

News based on personal interests

In the new News Service everyone can choose to receive those stand-alone News articles immediately after they are published; whether one is a registered Commission Member or not and also whether he is a CIB Member or not. The only thing one has to do, is take up a personal subscription to the newsgroup of one’s choice, where each such newsgroup covers a topic covered by one of the 50 or Commissions.

Special Newsgroups

In addition in the new system three special Newsgroups are introduced, for which one can take up a personal subscription.

These cover the News articles on:

- calls for papers (in international conferences and in special issues of the CIB Encouraged Journals
- introduction of new and free downloadable, CIB Publications
- announcements of CIB Webinars, including both the stand-alone and in general free Commission related webinars and the upcoming series of CIB Technology Webinars and announcements of free accessible recordings of the Commission Webinars.

How to access an existing or create a new Personal News Profile

As in the current news system all registered CIB Members are automatically subscribed to the Newsletter and all registered Members of the CIB Commissions are automatically subscribed to the Newsgroups that cover the topics by their Commissions.

This implies that for all of them a Personal News Profile has been created in the CIB website that lists these automatic subscriptions.

- World Building Congress →
- ICONDA@CIBlibrary →
- Outlooks →
- SB 13/14 Conferences →

- Subscribe to CIB News →

Such already existing Personal News Profile can be accessed as follows.

Step 1. Go to the CIB home page at www.cibworld.nl. In the right hand bottom corner you will find the CIB Hot Links. Select the last one "Subscribe to CIB News".

Step 2. You will be asked to fill in a subscription form. When you fill in your email address the system will recognize you and fill in the rest. Send the form. The system will then send a mail that includes the URL to your Personal News Profile.

The procedure for creating a new Personal News Profile is more-or-less the same. The difference is that you have to fill in the subscription form completely yourself. After having submitted this, the system will create an empty Personal News Profile for you, in which you can define your own preferences.

Selecting Personal News Groups

Your Personal News Profile enables you to indicate whether you want to receive the Newsletter and/or selected stand-alone News articles.

Monthly newsletter

subscription to the monthly CIB Newsletter

A personal subscription to the Newsletter can be taken up by ticking the respective box in your Personal News Profile.

Subscription to special news articles of the following type:

- Calls for papers
- Free Publications
- CIB Webinars

You can select the types of Special News articles you want to receive by ticking the respective boxes in your Personal News Profile.

In the same way you can select (the topics as covered by) the CIB Commissions, about which you want to receive News articles.

Instead of going over the whole list of 50 or Commissions, there is the possibility to select Commissions per Priority Theme or Area. If you tick on a theme the system will show only those Commissions that are of special relevance to that one theme. When done with this selection of Commissions, you can go back to the full list of Commissions through "un-ticking" the selected theme.

How to un-subscribe

You can un-subscribe yourself from a personal subscription through adjusting the Personal News Profile page in the CIB Website. Such un-subscription will be immediate.

An un-subscription from an automatic subscription requires an email request to be send to the CIB secretariat at Secretariat@cibworld.nl
